Fleshman attends seminar

Ms. Sylvia Fleshman, a resident of Appomattox, Virginia, attended an annual political education seminar sponsored by Nationwide Insurance Companies in Columbus, Ohio last week.

The three-day program was highlighted by White House Correspondent Helen Thomas' inside anecdotes gathered over 20 years of covering the "passing parade of presidents" for United Press International.

Fleshman is one of 23 chairmen and vice chairmen of Nationwide's Civic Action Program (CAP) who traveled to company headquarters for the CAP meeting. CAP is a non-partisan organization of Nationwide employees and agents that encourages participation in the democratic process at all levels of government.

Ms. Thomas, the first newswoman to be elected both president of the White House Correspondents Association and to membership in the historically all-male Gridiron Club, related highlights of her extensive travels with Presidents Kennedy, Johnson, and Nixon including accompanying the latter on his historic summit trips to China and the Soviet Union in 1972. She also shared her insights into the new Reagan Administration.

The May 13-15 program also included tips on running a political campaign by Karl Struble, president, National Voter Contact, Inc., Washington, D. C., and a former campaign director of the National Democratic Committee. Pete O'Grady, president, Pete O'Grady & Associates, Columbus, updated CAP officers on trends in increasingly popular state referendums.

Other speakers included: Diana Hetrick of Columbus, 1980 Ohio coordintor of the Anderson for President Committee; and Grace Trujillo and Polly Ward, representatives of the Atlantic Richfield Company's civic action program.

Nationwide Insurance is the fourth largest auto insurer in the U. S Nearly half of the company's 15,000 agents and employees around the nation are members of CAP.

Girl Scouts rough it

Renee Wesley, Marlisa Mosley, Sissy Knight, Jan Armentrout, Anne Pennix, Michelle Steeples, Jewel McCoy, Tara Walker and Linny Wesley are some of the Girl Scouts from Appomattox who spent the week-end of May 15, 16, and 17 at Camp Sacajawea near Lynchburg.

These girls have become skilled in knowing how to be comfortable in the out-of-doors, no matter what the weather.

They have learned how to build fires, cook over the fires and clean up. There was plenty of time for singing, putting on shows and visiting other Girl Scouts from Appomattox and Buckingham who were also at Camp Sacajawea.
